

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

June.

The robin watching o'er his nest,
Sings a melodious, joyful tune
The wood thrush flutes his very best
To tell us all that this is June.

The lingering sun, though loath to set,
Brings twilight shadows all too soon;
Would he might linger longer yet—
No day can be too long in June.

The honeysuckle scents the air,
The tree tows merrily to the moon;
Earth seems without a stain or care,
And lovers whisper—this is June.

Annual Class Recital.

Miss Zella Minor's piano class were heard Tuesday evening in their annual recital by an audience that filled the spacious auditorium of the Woman's Club and overflowed into the hall and on the stairway. Many well-known teachers were present, and expressed themselves as delighted with the results obtained by Miss Minor's method, in both technique and style, especially with the younger pupils, who had had such short periods of study.

The vocalists, Miss Ellen Gordon Wortham, Miss Helen Portaux and Mr. Arthur Scriver, were most enthusiastically received and recalled. Mr. Hoen's 'cello obligato and Mr. Wadsworth's accompaniments were given in their usual delightful manner.

The programme and class roll were published in these columns last Sunday.

The Rev. John Hallowell Dickinson gave a charming address and made the presentation of the medals, annual reports and diplomas in most happy vein.

The first honor, a gold harp medal, was awarded to Miss Marion Newman for the highest general average on lesson marks, attendance and examination.

The second honor, a smaller gold harp medal, was awarded Miss Mary Johnson for the second highest average.

Miss Ethel Watkins, being third in rank, was awarded a special prize.

Miss Jane Simpson received the only prize for attendance, having missed neither lesson nor class meeting.

The delivery of diplomas to two full graduates, Miss Rebecca Gordon and Mrs. Lilly Hill Smith, was a very pleasing incident of the recital.

Miss Gordon, Lucile Manser, Vivian Buchanan, Frances Crane, Annie Kunker and Gladys Gaskins, for fourth rank in examination.

An incident not on the programme was the presentation to Miss Minor, from the class, of a handsome suitcase, with which for a pleasant summer trip somewhere.

Mr. Dickinson was most pleasing in making the presentation.

The programme closed with the overture to Tannhauser, as piano quartette, played by Miss Gordon, Miss Gordon, Miss Walter C. Mercer and Miss Lee Jones.

Miss Minor has every reason to be proud of her pupils and their performance Tuesday evening. Those of other years who have gone away to school have always won golden opinions, and several are teaching.

Messrs. Arthur Thomas and John Field, members of the class, did the honors in presenting the flowers to the performers.

THE BANNER OF THE JEW

By EMMA LAZARUS.

Emma Lazarus, born in New York 1860, died there 1887. She was of Portuguese Jewish ancestry, and early showed signs of poetic power. In 1888 she devoted herself to a literary crusade on behalf of the Jews who were being persecuted in Russia. The poem we print to-day is one of her best known.

WAKE, Israel, wake! Recall to-day
The glorious Maccabean rage,
The sire heroic, hoary gray,
His fivefold lion-lineage—
The Wise, the Blest, the Help-of-God,
The Burst-of-Spring, the Avenging-Rod.

From Mizpah's mountain ridge they saw
Jerusalem's empty streets, her shrine
Laid waste where Greeks profaned the law
With idol and with pagan sign;
Mourners in tattered black were there,
With ashes sprinkled on their hair.

Then from the stony peak there rang
A blast to open the graves; then poured
The Maccabean clan, who sang
Their battle-anthem to the Lord.
Five heroes lead, and following, see,
Ten thousand rush to victory!

O, for Jerusalem's trumpet now,
To blow a blast of shattering power,
To wake the sleepers high and low,
And rouse them to the urgent hour!
No hand for vengeance—but to save,
A million naked swords should wave.

O, deem not dead that martial fire,
Say not the mystic flame is spent!
With Moses' law and David's lyre,
Your ancient strength remains unspent.
Let but an Ezra arise anew,
To lift the Banner of the Jew!

A RAG, a mock at first; ere long,
When men have bled and women wept,
To guard its precious folds from wrong,
Even they who shrink, even they who sleep,
Shall leap to bless it, and to save,
Strike! for the brave reverse the brave!

THOMAS HAD IT FIXED.

But Justice John Remembered a Skin Game.

When Thomas White, who "ain't," appeared before Justice John Jeter Crutchfield, the wise boss in the basement of the City Hall, he had it all fixed yesterday morning so that Gertrude Fitzgerald, from the Ward, would not give any damaging testimony about the kicking she received from the aforementioned Thomas. Gertrude was as mild as a June morning, and wouldn't utter a single inflammatory word. She it was, according to her calculations, who had been wrong, and Thomas had been grievously sinned against.

"It looks like I'm beat in the case all right," said the One John, as he passed his piano-like fingers through his snowy-white locks. "But I guess, that face reminds me of something. I am taken back to months gone by, and before my vision there arises a charge of crap shooting against you. To me it appears that you never answered the summons to this court at the time the other skin-game-blacks were here to contribute to the sinking fund."

Then, with his eyes still fixed on the frontispiece of Thomas White, the venerable justice ordered Scribe Edgar White the Little Frontman, to turn to the book of record and look through the month of February of 1905.

"I find here that an attachment was issued for one Thomas White, guilty of shooting craps, on the 27th of last February," spoke the One Edgar, pushing the book across the desk. "Just then you said, 'Ah, ha! And what I must do to say now, Thomas, my boy?' put in the Only Crutchfield."

"Jedge, Ah were sick for two weeks, and Ah thought as how de charge had done been forgot by de 'loccements," answered Thomas.

"That may be so, Thomas, but my memory still serves me. I can't convict you for beating the woman, but I am going to ask you double the amount for shooting dice. Gimme $5."

Sam McKenna, a negro from the Bowery, got out of jail last week, and Thursday night didn't like the attitude of the woman. He smote the woman, and didn't have the $10 that he was asked to contribute yesterday.

Marlo Hayes, Thomas Moseley, Willie Coles, Calie Jones and Josh Moseley, all negroes, were assessed $5 for being disorderly in Ramon Alley. Officer Neils pulled the entire crowd of negroes, who were making a great disorder and aly-ho, breaks at each other.

John B. Waters, a young white man, swore that he was not ordered to move from the corner of First and Broad Streets by the officers, and Policeman Thaw said that Officer Wright had given the order. Officer Wright was not in court, and the case was continued until this morning, and the question of veracity will be tested.

Fannie Francis, the negro woman, who caused such a disturbance on Eighth Street Thursday afternoon, was separated from a five dollar bill that she didn't have.

JOHNNIE TOOK IN THE GREAT AND SMALL

Lad Who Claimed to Be Orphan in Search of Uncle Has Father and Mother.

As an actor, Johnnie Noonan, the little white boy who made such a manly and such a sympathetic plea to the police and to Justice John J. Crutchfield for transportation to Baltimore, where he said he had an uncle, would make a complete success.

By his wits he fooled the entire police department and had Justice Crutchfield, the man who sees human nature in all of its different guises, looking groggy. And completely did he deceive Mr. Patrick McDonough, who would have adopted him and given him a home.

Four days ago the small boy—he is only eleven years old—made his appearance at the Second Police Station, and in a straightforward manner said that he wanted to get to Baltimore, where he had an uncle, and his mother and father were dead, he declared, and that he had traveled from Charleston, S. C., on a freight.

In Police Court he walked up to Justice Crutchfield and asked that he be sent to Baltimore. The boy was turned over to Chief of Police Werner, and this official communicated with the chief of police in Charleston.

Mr. W. A. Boyle, head of the police department in the Carolina city, notified the police yesterday morning that the boy's mother was living in Charleston, and that his father, John E. Noonan, was a sailor on the dredge boat "General Abbott," which is now in the Norfolk docks for repairs.

The information was also to the effect that the father of the lad would arrive in Richmond to-day or to-morrow and take his son back home. Three weeks ago the boy ran away from home, and since that time has been on the road.

The boy, being held by the police until his father can reach the city and take him back home. He gave his name at first as Johnnie Thompson.

LOOKING AFTER FENCES.

Mr. Brownlow at Home Looking After Political Affairs.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BRISTOL, TENN., June 1.—Congressman W. P. Brownlow, of the First Tennessee District, has suddenly put in his presence at home. It was stated upon his arrival that he had come to attend the Decoration Day exercises at the National Soldiers' Home at Johnson City.

He may have come for this, but there was no doubt other reasons prompting his present visit to the district. Just now the opposition to him in his own party is quite active, and he doubtless came to confer with his lieutenants as to the best method to do in the view of the fact that a candidate of his own party is to be put out in opposition to him.

The indications are that it is going to be a strenuous fight, as it is quite certain that the opposition to Mr. Brownlow is more pronounced and more general now than it has ever before, and it is equally certain that the anti-Brownlow men are more determined.

Moore in Jail.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BRISTOL, TENN., June 1.—W. A. Moore, who is charged with having shot Archie Keese in an altercation on Third Street, having waived his right to a preliminary trial, is now in jail at Johnson City, awaiting the trial of the grand jury.

Keese was shot through the thigh with a 28-calibre revolver. The shooting is said to have been the result of Moore having found Keese in company with the former's daughter.

Newspaper Tributes.

On the demise of the late Henry Clay Payne, a concern in New York gathered from the papers published throughout the United States 4,685 newspaper stories of the life and career of the deceased.

These items were carefully mounted on Irish linen leaves and bound in 8 volumes, 400 pages to the book. A cover of genuine seal was appropriately lettered in gold and the entire material, representing the work of many people for several months, has just been delivered to Mrs. Payne at Milwaukee.

Mr. Burrelle, who makes a specialty of this unique method of preserving family history, also compiled four volumes containing the letters, telegrams and cards of condolence received by the family, all constituting a family heirloom that will be handed down to future generations.

This work is one of the several developments of the press clipping industry and Mr. Burrelle has made a special study of the work he created several years ago.
